

Consumer Health Data Privacy Notice

Effective Date: December 9, 2025

Last Updated: December 9, 2025

This supplemental Consumer Health Data Privacy Notice (“CHD Notice”) applies to Kura Sushi USA, Inc. (together with its relevant subsidiaries, associates, and affiliated companies, “Kura Sushi”, “Company”, “we”, “us” or “our”) and explains our practices as to personal data that qualifies as “consumer health data” as such term is defined by Washington’s My Health My Data Act, Nevada’s Consumer Health Data Privacy Law, and other U.S. consumer health data privacy laws, as each are amended and as and when they become effective including any regulations thereunder (“U.S. Consumer Health Data Privacy Laws”) and supplements our U.S. State Privacy Notice. In the event of a conflict with any other privacy policy or notice, other than an express notice given at the time of collection, this CHD Notice shall govern with respect to consumer health data.

Categories of Consumer Health Data Collected

The categories of consumer health data that we collect may include the following categories:

- Individual health conditions, treatment, disease, or diagnosis
- Social, psychological, behavioral, and medical interventions
- Health-related surgeries or procedures

Sources of Consumer Health Data

We collect consumer health data from you, your agents and representatives (for example, physicians or other health care providers who provide you a medical note or legal representatives in relation to a complaint or claim), governmental entities (for example, if you have filed a lawsuit against us, we may obtain information from official filings), our affiliates and related entities, and other third parties that may have your consumer health data in relation to the processing purposes described herein.

Purposes of Consumer Health Data Collection and Uses

We may collect consumer health data if you make a disability-related or other accommodations or modification request in connection with our products and services, a complaint to or about us that may allege personal injury, or an incident report involving personal injury. For example:

- If you are present during an incident or accident that occurs at one of our physical locations (such as a safety or security incident), we may collect information about you, including consumer health data, in relation to the incident or accident. This includes your physical characteristics that we observe through review of security footage, if available, to investigate the incident, some of which the U.S. Consumer Health Data Privacy Laws may classify as consumer health data.
- We may collect your consumer health data relating to personal injury claims in connection with incidents occurring at one of our physical locations or while using one of our Services. This could include all the categories of consumer health data in the list above.

- When you use our products or services, you may provide your information in connection with disability- and accessibility-related accommodations requests (“Direct Purposes”), including information regarding your health conditions, treatment, diseases, or diagnosis.
- For other requests, or claims or complaints related to the Services, we may collect some or all of the categories of consumer health data from the list above that you provide to us, or that we receive from third parties (e.g., your attorney, provider, etc.), and that are necessary for us to collect in addressing your request, claim or complaint.
- To prevent, detect, protect against, or respond to security incidents, identity theft, fraud, harassment, malicious or deceptive activities, or any activity that is illegal under applicable state law or federal law; preserve the integrity or security of systems; or investigate, report, or prosecute those responsible for any such action that is illegal under applicable state law or federal law (“Special Purposes”). This includes maintaining business and regulatory records related to such purposes.

Sharing of Consumer Health Data with Third Parties and Affiliates

We share consumer health data with third parties in limited circumstances, as follows:

- Vendors that are classified as “processors” under the U.S. Consumer Health Data Privacy Laws which process consumer health data to assist us in providing products and services requested by Consumers, and for the other purposes described in this CHD Notice.
- Our other agents and contractors who assist us with the processing purposes described in this CHD Notice, such as legal representatives who assist us with complaints involving consumer health data.
- We will share your personal data, including any consumer health data that is relevant to your request or complaint, or an accident or incident pertaining to the Services with third parties so that they can respond to your request or complaint, or assist us with doing so.
- If your request or complaint, or an incident or accident, relates to or implicates one of our affiliated or related entities, we may share your consumer health data with such affiliates or related entities.
- Assignees or potential assignees as part of an acquisition, merger, asset sale, or other transaction where another party assumes control over all or part of our business.
- Other parties with your consent.

Categories of Consumer Health Data We Share

The categories of consumer health data that we collect may include the following categories:

- Individual health conditions, treatment, diseases, or diagnosis
- Social, psychological, behavioral, and medical interventions
- Health-related surgeries or procedures

For example, we may share these data categories with third parties so that they can provide or assist us with providing the accommodations you requested, facilitate resolution of your complaint, or as required by law.

Your Consumer Health Data Rights

Subject to applicable law, Consumers that are provided rights under U.S. Consumer Health Data Privacy Laws may have the following rights related to their consumer health data:

- Right to confirm processing of consumer health data and access to such data
- Right to delete
- Right to withdraw consent (from processing which requires your consent)
- Right to appeal our refusal to act on a request within a reasonable time after you receive our decision. You may appeal our decision regarding your request by following the instructions in our response to your request. If your appeal is unsuccessful, you can raise a concern or lodge a complaint with the Washington State Attorney General at <http://www.atg.wa.gov/file-complaint> or the Nevada Attorney General at https://ag.nv.gov/Complaints/CSU_Complaints_FAQ/.

We may limit your request as necessary for us to complete or document a Direct Purpose or Special Purpose.

You may request to exercise your consumer health data rights by filling out the Consumer Rights Form. Please note, as required by U.S. Consumer Health Data Privacy Laws, we take commercially reasonable efforts to authenticate your request before we process your request. If we believe we need further information to authenticate your request, we may ask you to provide additional information to us.

We will respond to your consumer health data rights requests pursuant to the requirements of U.S. Consumer Health Data Privacy Laws free of charge, up to twice annually. If requests are manifestly unfounded, excessive, or repetitive, we may charge a reasonable fee to cover the administrative costs of complying with the request or decline to act on the request.

Additional Disclosures

We do not allow third parties to collect or use consumer health data over time and across different Internet websites or online services.

We will retain and use your consumer health data for the length of time needed to carry out the purposes outlined in this CHD Notice and in accordance with our record retention policies.
